NAE Selects InterNACHI as Official Inspection Association

The National Association of Entrepreneurship announced today that it will partner with InterNACHI, which will act as the NAE's Official Inspection Association. This relationship will provide NAE members with access to a network of certified inspectors who provide a variety of inspection services – from comprehensive commercial inspections to a full range of residential inspections.

“The NAE members have a variety of inspection needs every day, both in their businesses and in their personal lives,” says Chris Nolan, NAE board member and Franchise Profs CEO. “Selecting InterNACHI was an easy choice. Their certified members are clearly the best in the business; this will be a great member benefit.”

The National Association of Entrepreneurship will begin promoting the program to members in March 2011, and will have a national directory available for members on April 1, 2011. Only certified inspectors will be a part of the program.

“We are very excited to have InterNACHI members connected to the NAE's 6,000 CEO members,” says Nick Gromicko, founder of InterNACHI. “As an organization, we are constantly looking for ways to help our members find great clients. NAE members will be pleased with the professionalism of InterNACHI's members.”

InterNACHI is the nation's leading inspection organization, with more than 7,000 U.S. inspectors and 32,000 international inspectors. InterNACHI members adhere to a rigorous training and certification program.
