Press Release

Advanced Technical Consultants® has just enhanced its Distance Learning format programs to include two new CD additions: 4-Hour and 12-Hour Wood Destroying Insects training for the Home Inspection Industry.

NACHI recognizes Kevin Hurley, BCE, instructor for ATC, as an Approved Educator for Qualified Continuing Education.

Olivebridge, NY, September 27, 2006: Kevin Hurley is a Board Certified Entomologist, who recently introduced a Termite Applicators Distance Learning certification program for Home Inspectors. The success of this program has spun off two more shorter courses designed specifically for the Home Inspector who wants to learn more about Wood Destroying Insect inspections, while gaining approved NACHI Qualified Continuing Education credits in the comfort of their own home or office, at their own pace. Mr. Hurley's experience comes by way of sixteen years in the Urban Pest Control industry as an instructor. He is Board Certified by the Entomological Society of America and has nationwide experience training applicators and home inspectors hands-on and through distance learning. He is also an expert witness experienced in mediation and arbitration and has represented Fortune 100 companies in litigation resulting from wood destroying insect and chemical damage. Kevin has also made several media appearances on the FX Network, American Journal and the Discovery Channel.

The new 4 and 12 hour courses will include such topics as termite entry points, how to recognize species damage, inspection tools, basic and advanced building construction design and how wood destroying insects make their way into the home.

NACHI MEMBERS RECEIVE SUBSTANTIAL DISCOUNTS ON ALL COURSES:

- 4-HOUR COURSE COST $60.00 NACHI DISCOUNT $50.00
- 12-HOUR COURSE COST $180.00 NACHI DISCOUNT $150.00 (+Tax, shipping and handling included)

All you need is a computer and an email address. These courses were designed to run from your computer's CD drive; they self-load and will not tie-up your internet service. Mr. Hurley has achieved several goals for the Home Inspector with this new format: reduced time away from your business and customers, the courses are self-paced and can be taken in convenient, short segments on your time schedule, no traveling expenses, and you can enhance your own training library for new employees.
