- Public Awareness

Across America, Mold contamination is a major problem for homeowners concerned about their health and the value of their property. To confirm the presence of mold in a home, samples must be collected from suspect air and surfaces.

Mold Assessors are experts in inspecting homes for mold, collecting samples and presenting homeowners with the information they need to take the next step.

This easy to follow, hands-on, interactive demonstration DVD presents the latest equipment and techniques for conducting residential indoor air quality mold screenings to help homeowners with their concerns about mold.
